"I am a bimetallist—I am in favor of both gold and silver, the money of the constitution and of the final redemption," Gov. Oates' message to the legislature.

This language has the true ring, and we take pleasure in commanding it to the Advertiser for her careful consideration.

He is a good one on erudite Boston in the guise of a summary of facts culled from an article, prepared by a professor in Johns Hopkins university, which recently appeared in 'The Forum'—Of these Boston children, three-fourths have never seen, to know them, the common grains, trees and vegetables growing; 18 per cent do not know the meaning of such words as, forehead, elbow, throat, cheek, wrist and ribs; 47 per cent have never seen a pig; 14 per cent have never seen the stars; and have no ideas about them; 35 per cent have never been out of town; 20 per cent do not know that wooden things come from trees; and 20 per cent do not know that milk comes from cows.

And this too in Boston!

The Hot Blast in speaking of the article which appeared in the last issue of the REPUBLICAN outlining the advantages of Anniston as a location for the Girls Industrial School, said:

"The above from the pen of Dr. T. W. Ayers, in the Jacksonville Republican, is most kind and generous. Several years ago, while editing THE HOT BLAST he strongly advocated an industrial school for girls in Anniston. Hostill feels that our city can offer more superior inducements for the location of this school than any other town in Alabama and enumerates several of the reasons why a location here would be wise."

The writer also insisted that Anniston was the proper location for Howard College, and if it had been located in Anniston instead of going to Birmingham, it would not to day be weighted down with a heavy debt and be a load for the Baptist denomination to carry.

We hope the committee to locate the industrial school will not make such a mistake as the Howard committee made.

The negro girl, Ida B. Wells, who has just returned from Europe, where she has been lecturing to the fable-loving Englishmen on the cruelty of the whites to the negroes in the south, says that she was wined and dined, while away, by the best people of London. She was the guest of members of parliament, and her lectures were attended by the best people of the Kingdom. She reports that her anti-lynching lectures raised such a storm of indignation that capitalists declare they will make no investments here. Well, now, what do we care? We know Englishmen will go wherever they can make a dollar, and we know that we will have as many of them here as we need whenever they see that it will be profitable for them to come. When they get here they will be just like we are, and will discover that the tales told by this negress are but the creations of an adventurer. Oscar Wilde came to America a few years since, and "gulled" our people, but the little negro girl went over and "got even."

We notice in our Fergusonville letter, of last week, that some of our friends in the county are engaged in making lime, which they propose to use in making a compost. We trust that we are not to be classed with the officious when we say that we do not think this idea a good one. In the first place, it is doubtful if the soils to be fertilized are in need of more lime. We should think that there was enough. But if lime is needed, we think this method of applying a dangerous one. Our reasons are these: In all our domestic fertilizers the principal ingredient is nitrogen. This, too, is the costliest of all fertilizing elements. Now when lime is added to your compost heap, it immediately begins to liberate this element of nitrogen which passes off into the air, and the result is a great loss. We are sure that lime plaster would prove vastly more efficient in the compost as it is a great absorber, and tends to fix the nitrogen. If lime plaster cannot be procured, dry dust from the road is a partial substitute. We are sure that the dust would be better than the lime. If lime must be added to the soil it had better be broadcasted. We trust our friends will think of this, and let us hear from them.

WE ARE OFFERING

This decrease in the manufacture of commercial fertilizers is a good thing for the South. While they are valuable aids when properly used, it is extravagance to buy them and neglect to use the many valuable elements that are annually wasted on the farms.

The recent message of Gov. Oates to the legislature, bearing principally upon the subject of the public schools of the state, is a very able document. It is full of facts, and statistics, and it presents them in so admirable a manner, as to make that document worth filing for future use.

The Atlanta Constitution is well known as a cue to Senator Morgan, yet this statement is found in the Washington special matter of issue yesterday:

"The friends of the Nearanga Canal bill have abandoned hope of passing that at this session. They do not think the Morgan bill will even get through the Senate."

And yet The Advertiser is considered very extreme for not wanting to see fifty Morgans in the Senate, and for considering him an impractical back number.—Montgomery Advertiser.

The above was written at a time when the Advertiser thought Senator Morgan's bill would meet a certain defeat in the Senate. But since the General has succeeded in having his bill passed by the Senate, what does the Advertiser now have to say? Does it still consider the Senator an impractical back number?

Senator Morgan is recognized as the ablest man in the United States Senate, and the Advertiser had as well own up.

It is a common power that both the Legislature and the people of the South have when they are in the majority. But when he once attains the upper hand, then into the hands turns his heart, and he becomes a dangerous force which he did not intend.

Ex Governor Tillman of South Carolina having reached the goal, and secured the prize of his ambition in the office of United States Senator, through the influence of the all-powerful Young, now assumes a seaworthy old political ship upon which he has ridden triumphantly into political preferment, and unite with the disgruntled republicans of the west, and the democrats of the South. In organizing a national party that will profess sympathy with the people and promise relief to the country.

Strong indeed is it that the ex-governor never forsook the democratic party unworthy of his allegiance until he had by affiliation with it filled the full measure of his earthly ambition. He has either lost his cunning, or having made sure of six years of remunerative official life, has decided to risk a part of his tenure in political speculation, and in the practice of the arts of the demagogue.

It will not be denied that Gov. Tillman is a man of intelligence, and that he has been conspicuous for the courage of his convictions. No one knows better than he that the principles that underlie and vitalize the democratic organization, and not the men who constitute its personnel, should claim our fidelity, and demand our devotion. Men may die, principles never; men may change under the influence of personal or selfish consideration, but principles are immutable and enduring. Such are the principles of the democratic party, which have survived the civil and political convulsions of a century, and are as pure and inviolate today as when promulgated by the immortal Jefferson. Popular sovereignty, civil and religious liberty, equal rights to all, special privileges to none; the greatest good to the greatest number, are some of the bedrocks that lie at the foundation of the party.

Gov. Tillman has leveled his opposition at a part of the constituency of the party who invested with power and prominence, have betrayed the trust reposed in them, by declining or failing to carry out the pledges of the platform of principles adopted at Chicago.

If men in high places have deliberately deceived the people, and abused their confidence, let them be "Anathema Maranatha," but let us reconsecrate ourselves to the party whose principles are the only basis of popular right and civil liberty.

The definition of democracy is Monometalism vs. Bimetallism

Monometalism which two years ago had its numerous and uncompromising defenders, seems, by the wholesale desertion of sensible men who have yielded their preconceived ideas to the inexorable logic of events, to be in need of recruits.

The theory of international bimetallism is no longer a tenable dogma, but a miserable delusion. Congressmen who under the influence of executive favor and flattery, voted for the unconditional repeal of the Sherman law, and made no provision for the coining of the "dollar of the daddies," are receiving their reward in the execrations of the people whose trusts they have betrayed.

It may be a matter of indifference to a salaried officer, who eats his bread by the sweat of the tax-payers brow, as to whether the primary money of the country is bimetallic or not; but to the toiling millions whose debts are doubled and whose incomes are reduced, if not absolutely cut off, by a monometallic basis of credit, it is a matter of very serious consideration.

While in the South our people are generally supplied with the necessary comforts of life, they have been forced to exchange the products of their labor for scarcely one half their value, on account of a restricted and inadequate medium of exchange. Relief cannot come, short of a circulating medium equal to the already great and constantly increasing demands of our commerce.

Great men who seek popular favor and political advancement are the victims of bewildering doubt and uncertainty. Democrats, disregarding if not repudiating the plain principles of their platform, which would have made our country prosperous and our homes assured of contentment, if put in practice, are fighting among themselves, in the consciousness of neglected duty, and unimproved opportunity. But the people, patient, and will wait for the rest.

We have in most of the congressmen and senators of the south, tribunes worthy of the confidence reposed in them by the people. These have ever been at their posts and have been found doing their duty along the lines marked out by the Chicago platform. Their number will be augmented if the democracy is true to itself, until in 1896 every pledge will be faithfully carried out, and every legitimate demand necessary to the prosperity of the whole country be granted.

It is indeed refreshing to see such democratic leaders as Senator David B. Hill right in the great center of a monometallic influence bringing from their neglected and dusty hiding place letters written by him long months ago, in which he declares himself a bimetallist, independent of international agreement. This is democracy and without giving in our adhesion to Senator Hill for anything, we heartily commend him for the courage he has exhibited in boldly defying the popular sentiment of his own home.

If the distresses of our own people were not a conclusive refutation to the destructive financial policy of this country, we have only to institute a comparison between Mexico, a silver bearing and silver using country, and the United States to put forever at rest the false assumptions of monometalists. A correspondent of the Atlanta Constitution of recent date gives an interview had with Capt. W. G. Raoul, President of the Mexican National Railway, which we regret we have not the space to reproduce in full. Capt. Raoul was an original obstinate monometalist, but his observations and experience in Mexico have converted him into an uncompromising bimetallist. He says Mexico has never been so prosperous as now. Her silver dollars are eagerly sought after and will purchase as much as they ever would, and instead of a shrinkage in values, such as we have in this country, better prices are realized for all salable articles, than ever before. He says that since the United States has closed her mints against the free and unlimited coining of silver, Mexico has been using her silver for the development of her native resources, and thus producing at home her supplies of goods, wares and merchandise; that her imports have been greatly reduced, while her exports have in the last two years almost doubled. Exempting the above sums, at least six millions of dollars were withdrawn from the United States and invested in Mexico last year, all because of the embargo which keeps silver at the Rio Grande. If eating the padding is proof of its quality, then the theory of international bimetallism, in the face of the prosperity of Mexico is an inexorable monetary fallacy.

We conclude with the assertion, that with free and unlimited coining of silver and the construction of the Nicaraguan canal as an artery of commerce between us and the silver using countries of the world, the United States would have an era of unequalled prosperity to which it would be impossible to fix a limit.

Will There be an Extra Session.

It is virtually an admitted fact that the present congress will do nothing for the financial betterment of the country and relief of the people, and an adjournment inaster would meet with universal popular approbation, were it not for the possibility of the passage of the bill providing governmental aid in the construction of the Nicaraguan canal, which through the untiring efforts of our worthy and distinguished Senator, Hon. John T. Morgan, has already passed the Senate. It is to be hoped that this bill will become a law without delay, as it would insure to the United States commercial relations with $90,000,000 of people out of 1,500,000,000 of the population of the world, who are now commercially strangers to us. The benefits that would thus accrue to our country would be incalculable and inconceivable. But whether it passes or not, whether congress enacts or not any currency law, we want it distinctly understood that we are not of those who think the President ought to call an extra session of congress immediately on the adjournment of the present congress.

While in the South our people are generally supplied with the necessary comforts of life, they have been forced to exchange the products of their labor for scarcely one half their value, on account of a restricted and inadequate medium of exchange. Hill right in the great center of a monometallic influence bringing from their neglected and dusty hiding place letters written by him long months ago, in which he declares himself a bimetallist, independent of international agreement. This is democracy and without giving in our adhesion to Senator Hill for anything, we heartily commend him for the courage he has exhibited in boldly defying the popular sentiment of his own home.

If the distresses of our own people were not a conclusive refutation to the destructive financial policy of this country, we have only to institute a comparison between Mexico, a silver bearing and silver using country, and the United States to put forever at rest the false assumptions of monometalists. A correspondent of the Atlanta Constitution of recent date gives an interview had with Capt. W. G. Raoul, President of the Mexican National Railway, which we regret we have not the space to reproduce in full. Capt. Raoul was an original obstinate monometalist, but his observations and experience in Mexico have converted him into an uncompromising bimetallist. He says Mexico has never been so prosperous as now. Her silver dollars are eagerly sought after and will purchase as much as they ever would, and instead of a shrinkage in values, such as we have in this country, better prices are realized for all salable articles, than ever before. He says that since the United States has closed her mints against the free and unlimited coining of silver, Mexico has been using her silver for the development of her native resources, and thus producing at home her supplies of goods, wares and merchandise; that her imports have been greatly reduced, while her exports have in the last two years almost doubled. Exempting the above sums, at least six millions of dollars were withdrawn from the United States and invested in Mexico last year, all because of the embargo which keeps silver at the Rio Grande. If eating the padding is proof of its quality, then the theory of international bimetallism, in the face of the prosperity of Mexico is an inexorable monetary fallacy.

of the Nicaraguan canal as an artery of commerce between us and the silver using countries of the world, the United States would have an era of unequalled prosperity to which it would be impossible to fix a limit.

It is virtually an admitted fact that the present congress will do nothing for the financial betterment of the country and relief of the people, and an adjournment inaster would meet with universal popular approbation, were it not for the possibility of the passage of the bill providing governmental aid in the construction of the Nicaraguan canal, which through the untiring efforts of our worthy and distinguished Senator, Hon. John T. Morgan, has already passed the Senate. It is to be hoped that this bill will become a law without delay, as it would insure to the United States commercial relations with $90,000,000 of people out of 1,500,000,000 of the population of the world, who are now commercially strangers to us. The benefits that would thus accrue to our country would be incalculable and inconceivable. But whether it passes or not, whether congress enacts or not any currency law, we want it distinctly understood that we are not of those who think the President ought to call an extra session of congress immediately on the adjournment of the present congress.

While in the South our people are generally supplied with the necessary comforts of life, they have been forced to exchange the products of their labor for scarcely one half their value, on account of a restricted and inadequate medium of exchange. Relief cannot come, short of a circulating medium equal to the already great and constantly increasing demands of our commerce.

Great men who seek popular favor and political advancement are the victims of bewildering doubt and uncertainty. Democrats, disregarding if not repudiating the plain principles of their platform, which would have made our country prosperous and our homes assured of contentment, if put in practice, are fighting among themselves, in the consciousness of neglected duty, and unimproved opportunity. But the people, patient, and will wait for the rest.

We have in most of the congressmen and senators of the south, tribunes worthy of the confidence reposed in them by the people. These have ever been at their posts and have been found doing their duty along the lines marked out by the Chicago platform. Their number will be augmented if the democracy is true to itself, until in 1896 every pledge will be faithfully carried out, and every legitimate demand necessary to the prosperity of the whole country be granted.

It is indeed refreshing to see such democratic leaders as Senator David B. Hill right in the great center of a monometallic influence bringing from their neglected and dusty hiding place letters written by him long months ago, in which he declares himself a bimetallist, independent of international agreement. This is democracy and without giving in our adhesion to Senator Hill for anything, we heartily commend him for the courage he has exhibited in boldly defying the popular sentiment of his own home.

New Lung Treatment.

The new lung remedy, discovered by Dr. Copeland and now administered at the Copeland Medical Institute, in deep-seated lung troubles, seems to finally settle the problem of the complete treatment of the disease.

It is not only saving hundreds of pale sufferers from trouble among our own people, but its remedial potency and the correctness of the philosophy upon which it is based, has been fully attested in practice elsewhere, by leading lung specialists in every great city in the country, earning commendatory expressions from all who shortly will be presented to the community. The advantages of improved treatment are a regular and important feature of the Copeland system.

Let it be clearly and distinctly understood that Drs. Copeland and Dr. T. W. Ayers spent several days in Atlanta this week.

Miss Mamie L. Rowland of Goodwater, is visiting Mrs. H. W. Graham.

Mr. and Mrs. Countryman entertained a number of young people on Thursday evening.

Miss Jessie Forney, after a long visit to Montgomery and Mobile, is again in Jacksonville.

Mrs. T. J. Cason is in Jacksonville, visiting her father's family.

Jacksonville is now billing some fine lumber to Depew, N. Y. It is cut by Aiken & Co at Monahans.

An entertainment to visiting young ladies was given at the home of Mrs. Fred Stripes on Tuesday evening.

Mr. Peter W. Martin of Green-ville, Georgia, representing the Columbian Book Co., of Atlanta is in Jacksonville.

Mr. J. A. Gaboury has returned from Macon. Mrs. Gaboury and the children will not be back before spring.

Mr. Leo King of Montgomery, was in our town Monday. Mr. King is a Jacksonville boy and has a host of friends.

Miss Exa Hanes entertained the Guitar, Mandolin and Banjo Club, at her home Wednesday evening.

We are glad to be able to announce to his numerous friends in Jacksonville, that Mr. Nacon Stevenson who has been quite sick in Montgomery is much better.

Our townsmen Jno. Ramagnano, know a few things about raising fine hogs, and what he knows he puts in practice. He killed two hogs last week, that were eighteen months old. The net weight of one was 319 pounds while the other weighed 445 pounds.

J. W. McElreath of Anniston was here Monday to file the will of his father. The will gives all the property of the estate to Mrs. McElreath during her life, and names J. W. McElreath as executor without bond. Josh McElreath is one of the most worthy young men in Calhoun county.

A Knights' Armor

Dr. M. H. Lane, by special request, will deliver his famous lecture, "A Knight's Armor" in the College Hall on Monday evening, Admission 25c.

The Memphis Daily, speaking of Dr. Lane's lecture has this to say: "Dr. Lane brings to his aid inspiring imagination, coupled with a rich flow of language which he gathers like the thoughts like elegant drapery."

Every where Dr. Lane has lectured the press speaks of him in the most complimentary terms. This will be a treat to our people and we trust that they will take advantage of the opportunity offered.

CHAPTER XI.

My interview with Olivia passed off better than I expected. She had no desire to go to the house. I could only suppose that it was the first punishment for what may have appeared my impudent interview in what did not concern me. The very fact that she listened so kindly proved that she suspected Felix was masquerading as her lover. She could only be assured of this by overhearing his interview with Rose Geron. and therefore accepted my invitation to go to the Jenny street rooms. If their tenant was Francis, he would resent the intrusion of Rose, but if Felix the two confederates would discuss talk of his guilty secret.

Thanks to a sovereign judiciously bestowed on the earkeeper, I had discovered that Rose Geron intended to visit Felix at 8 o'clock. How the earkeeper found out I do not know, but in some mysterious way he overheard the doings of their superiority. It sufficed for me that Rose would be in the rooms of Felix on this evening, and that Olivia would catch them in a trap. I had no pity for the guilty pair, but I was genuinely sorry for Olivia. She little knew the torture she was about to undergo. I did and almost regretted that I had interfered in the matter. However, I could sole myself with the reflection that it was better for her to suffer a few hours than lifelong misery.

That she agreed to go to Jenny street at that hour without a chaperon proved her determination was of her own. Dilectly after we had left the house she must have felt horrified at the sight she was running of losing her good name, but seeing that her life's happiness depended upon knowing all she could elope to the winds and came when I found her at the foot of the stairs at 8 o'clock I admired and respected her from the bottom of my heart.

"Am I late?" she stammered, touching my hand with trembling fingers.

"Only five minutes," said I, looking at my watch. "I have been waiting at the head of the stairs for that time. However, we can soon walk round to Jenny street."

"Do you think any one will know me?" asked Olivia, taking my arm. "See, I have on a plain dress, and this will be a thick one."

"I am one who will recognize you," I answered smilingly. "You do not think I will meet any one of your acquaintances."

"I should have brought my mother but I wished her to know nothing of this treachery. If I had I have been deceived. I shall break off my acquaintance with Francis. But you will be silent about my visit, will you not, Miss Denham?"

"No one shall hear a word from me," answered earnestly. "I have told you all about it."

The legislature should pass a fair contest bill before it adjourns. It should also make the necessary amendments to our election law.

GOVERNOR OATES is in earnest in his efforts to save the state a large sum of money by having city courts abolished where they are not an absolute necessity.

SEND in $1.25 and get the REPUBLICAN and the Atlanta Constitution for one year. The contest for the prize of one thousand dollars will be decided on the first of May. So now is the time to subscribe.

The cordial reception extended by the citizens of Atlanta to Mrs. Grant, widow of the dead soldier and statesman is another evidence that the unkindness engendered by the civil war, are, "In the deep bosom of the ocean buried."

Two of the most important measures which have been before the present legislature have been defeated, to-wit: To release from taxation for ten years new cotton mills located in the state, and the bill to reduce the constitutional area of counties to 400 square miles.

A TRAIN load of negroes left the shed at Birmingham last week, for Mexico where they go to engage in farming on latives. If the reports that come from Mexico are true, the Rancheros will find the negro a much stronger and a more intelligent laborer than the beggarly "peon."

The only thing necessary to make a success of a county fair at Oxford Lake and make it the means of improving the agricultural and stock interests of Calhoun county, is the proper enterprise and effort on the part of our citizenship. Let Oxford and Anniston lead out in the movement, and the other portions of the county will fall into line.

In rejecting the financial plan submitted by the administration, the congress in common decency should propose something better. —Hot Blast.

Yes, and when the administration called congress together to repeal the purchasing clause of the Sherman bill it should have proposed something better.

"PLATFORM DEMOCRAT" in the last issue of the REPUBLICAN was correct in the statement that Senator Pugh, and other prominent Southern Democrats, warned the people that no relief would come to the country by the unconditional repeal of the Sherman bill. We even find the treasury in worse condition to-day than during the existence of the Sherman law.

JUDGING from the differences which exist between the President and the Democrats in the House and Senate it would be difficult for them to agree on a financial plank in a Democratic platform. The question of finance is to-day the most important question before the people, and the Democratic party should have a well defined financial policy and its members come together.

It is said by the knowing ones in Washington that Postmaster General Bissell will soon resign. He has for many months been dissatisfied with his position. This is due somewhat to the fact that he is not allowed to name postmasters of the presidential class, as have his predecessors under other administrations. Mr. Cleveland requires the endorsements of every applicant to be laid before him, and he names the man—very often one who has not received the endorsement of his congressman or the Postmaster General.

ALTHOUGH the scheme of colonizing the negro in Mexico now seems to be a popular one, and is considered by many as being feasible, we venture to predict for it a failure. The negro is a great lover of home, and is the last being in the world to voluntarily leave it. The beautiful and pathetic old songs, "Carry me back to Ole Virginia," "Darling Chloe," "My Old Kentucky Home," "Way Down upon De Swanne River," all attest the negro's attachment to his early environment. This is as true of him today as it was twenty years ago, and while a few may leave the South, with her cotton fields, and her watermelon patches, most of them will come dropping back to the scenes of their childhood.

THE Jacksonville Normal School has been of inestimable value to the public schools of this section by furnishing competent and trained teachers. Wherever the graduates of this school go, they enthrall the people on education, and build up good schools.

Nothing is doing more to improve the public schools of Alabama than the sending out of trained teachers by the Normal schools of the state. The Legislature will make a great mistake to decrease the number of these schools or lessen the appropriation for their support.

The subscription list of the REPUBLICAN is rapidly increasing. We attribute this largely to the splendid service which is being rendered by our county correspondents. No item of news in the county escapes their attention, and when the people read the REPUBLICAN they feel confident that they keep posted on all the happenings in the country.

DR. TALMAGE will no longer preach in the Brooklyn Tabernacle. He has concluded that he does not need money, and from this time on will preach each Sunday at 4 p.m. in the Academy of Music in the city of New York. He gets no salary for his services. When one considers that the Doctor's income is somewhere near thirty thousand dollars per year, this statement that he preaches without pay does not create a "special wonder."

A RECENT correspondent to the Atlanta Constitution devoted much of his space to the trade relations between Mexico and the United States. He is of the opinion that Mexico will never be a great manufacturing country. He believes that the United States is the country that is to make the bulk of the manufactured goods used in Mexico. If this be true it behoves the people of the South to study the demands of our sister republic to the south of us. We have the material for manufacturing what they need, and we have the workmen. We are near enough to make the freight but little greater than if the goods were made in Mexico. The South ought to monopolize this trade.

From advices received from Montgomery, it appears that the Governor's recent message is likely to cause the appropriations to be withdrawn—from our state normal schools. We are sorry that there is such a danger, for we believe these institutions have been great helpers in Alabama's moral and educational advance. To end their existence at this time is a step backwards a retrograde movement, and we had least expected to find Gov. Oates acting as champion in such a cause.

If these appropriations are withdrawn, there will be only two normal schools that will be able to constitute their work. These will be the negro schools at Tuskegee and Montgomery, which receive large donations from friends in the North.

A pitiful spectacle it will be when Alabama proceeds to the world that she is too poor or too niggardly to offer her white sons and daughters as good educational advantages as outsiders are giving to the negro.

The victory won by the Republican party in November has led some of the leading Republicans to decide to make a square fight to carry Alabama in the next state election.

Dr. Moseley in the last issue of his paper in reply to an invitation by the Greenville Living Truth to follow Capt. Kolb into the Populite party, said:

"We never will have a better chance to muster a great majority of the people of our native state under the Republican flag. We can not, nor will we follow, the gallant Captain into the Populite party. We have one hundred and forty thousand Republicans in Alabama, and new material is coming every day into our lines. The arms of the Republican party are not 'spiny,' but muscular and strong. We will meet you at the 'fork of the roads,' and give you party and ballot box stinging Democracy such an overwhelming defeat in 1896, that you and yours will forget there ever was such a party as Populist. Do you see the hand writing on the wall?"

From this it will be seen that it is not the intention of the chairman of the republican executive committee to have any fusion in Alabama during 1896—the year in which a President of the United States is to be elected.

We are now showing full line of Spring Goods, in prints, domestic and foreign Ginghams, Percales, Crepons, Outings & many new weaves in cotton goods.

SATURDAY, FEB. 3, 1895.

Be Loyal to Democratic Principles.

Nothing attests with more emphasis the mutability of things that are of the earth earthly than the mental transitions and political sommersaults that are being made nowadays by some of our so called leaders at the nations capital.

The best interests of the country and the prosperity of the people seem to have been lost sight of in the fierce struggle for party advantage or personal aggrandizement.

The demands of the people have become matters of secondary consideration. The maxim that our government is based upon the consent of the governed has become obsolete or is regarded as a political dogma of old fugitives like Washington, Jefferson, Calhoun, and Lincoln, suited only to the infancy of a republican form of government.

Old things in the theory of our government have passed away, and all things have become new. The sovereign people must now be content with a servants place, and consider it a privilege to do homage at the shrine of official rank.

What shall be done, or what legislative enactment is necessary, for the best interests of the country, is no longer a rule of official conduct or a motive to patriotic action by later day politicians; but how or in what way will proposed legislation affect my chances for official tenure or future political advancement. What does Sherman or Reed care for the common people so long as they can please the millionaires and Shylocks who dominate the country and control elections by the power of money? what does Gorman or Hill care for the pledges of their party platform, if they can find a speedier and surer way to political preferment than by advertising and carrying them out? In our last issue we commended Senator Hill for his courage in declaring for independent bimetallism regardless of his monometallic environment in his eastern home. At the same time, with misgivings as to the sincerity of any profession he might make, or honesty of any opinion he might express, we declined to give in our adhesion to his party office. How wisely and well taken was our position, for almost before we read our proof he had in effect repudiated his former declarations, and that portion of the seventh section of the Chicago platform which says: "we hold to the use of both gold and silver as the standard money of the country, and to the coinage of both gold and silver without discrimination against either metal," and now advocates the enactment of a law by congress in accord with the Presidents recent message which, in the opinion of the friends of bimetallism, would give silver a stab from which it might never recover.

If we are to be controlled by the opinions of such men, which are put off and on for convenience, like an old coat, it would be troublesome indeed sometimes to tell whether we are republicans or democrats; but when we plant ourselves upon the declarations of the Chicago platform which give out no uncertain sound, we know "where we are at."

Just in so far as a public repository of popular trust conforms his official life and work to the principles of the democratic party, he has the right to demand of an honest and confiding constituency, their approval and the commendation of "well done thou good and faithful servant." A servant (and officials high or low in our system of government are supposed to be servants) has no right or authority to alter, amend, or in spirit or letter to disregard the instructions of his master, the sovereign people. This paper does not measure its democracy by the official conduct of the servant, but receives its inspiration from the principles solemnly promulgated by the democratic party in convention, assembled, and wherever an official assumes the prerogative to ignore these principles or disregard the pledges they impose, we claim the right, and will exercise it, to criticize his apostasy.

We believe and contend that the only assurance for good government is to be found in the principles of the democratic party, and invariable in our fidelity and devotion to this party we decline to follow the lead of any man or set of men, who depart from its principles.

In the main the United States may be, as alleged, a nation of hero worshipers, but the imperial documents that the "King" can do no more than to apply in estimating the integrity of the representatives and servants of the people in our form of government.

Not Woman's Way.

The Women Suffragists who swooped down upon Atlanta last week, brought along with them some quaint old characters.

The President of the Convention is Miss Susan B. Anthony, a very pleasant middle-aged maid, who, for cause until failed to get married at that time of life, when marriages are generally celebrated, and who, since then, has been so "son" that a man would have taken lock-jaw to have to have even thought of proposing.

There were other women in the body who were more fortunate than Miss Susan B. They had selected husbands, and brought the little fellows along with them, and had them "look pretty," and say speeches for the ladies. Prominent among these Amazons were Mrs. Hemphill of South Carolina, and Lucy Stone who has a husband named Henry Blackwell.

The unique character, the significance, of this galaxy of eccentricity, however, was the Rev. Anna H. Shaw of Philadelphia. One would suppose from the title which precedes her name, that this divine personage was of a gentle, meek, long-suffering nature. She is doubtless when asleep. In her walking hours, however, she has exhibited no such qualities. Dr. Hawthorne of Atlanta had said something that vexed the Rev. Anna, and in her first speech on the convention floor, she seized the opportunity to rebuke. She fussed as only woman can fuss, receiving the applause of her hearers and having worked herself into a passion, she came down with these original words—"The doctor is beneath my notice."

One might further think that the Rev. Anna had reached the point when, sick and weary with the vanities of this world, she could exclaim with Wolsey, "Vain point and glory of this world I have late ye."

If she ever said this it must have been in the nature of a joke, or when, with some of her fellow suffragists she essayed the role of the Cardinal in some amateur rehearsal.

Anyway she did not say it when the Atlanta Constitution's artist, who, unfortunately had paid more attention to his art and propriety than he had to the advanced ideas of the suffragists, seeing the title

Rev. before her name on the picture before him was sure some mistake had been made, and in order to save his paper, attempted to change the Rev. Anna so as to make her look as much like a man as possible.

He changed her cloak and made it resemble a minister's coat as best he could, took the feathers off her hat, and made it resemble a man as much as possible, and in order to give a more masculine face, he took the little ping nose of the Rev. and gave it a little Roman addition.

Poor artist, in his innocence he made a blunder, which gave Rev. Anna a chance to make another attack—this time on the Constitution and its artist.

Rev. Anna reached the climax of her little exhibition when she was called on to pray. She began the Lords Prayer with "Our Father and Mother" who are in heaven.

Poor, woman! Much zeal has made her mad, let the veil of sweet charity, throw its folds about her, and hide from a heartless world her unfortunate peculiarities.

CHINA is in a deplorable condition. Japan has whipped her easily, and now when China sends envoys to the Japanese Capital to beg for peace, Japan refuses to accept their credentials and sends them back to China. The little land has her blood hot, and will be satisfied with nothing short of the capture of Peking and a large slice of Chinese territory.

Japan might do well to accept China's offers now. She is a little disposed to play the Shylock and demand the pound of flesh. She would doubtless feel very much chagrined if European nations should become tired of her bloody course and demand that she allow them to settle the matter.

CHINA is in a deplorable condition.

Japan has whipped her easily, and now when China sends envoys to the Japanese Capital to beg for peace, Japan refuses to accept their credentials and sends them back to China. The little land has her blood hot, and will be satisfied with nothing short of the capture of Peking and a large slice of Chinese territory.

Japan might do well to accept China's offers now. She is a little disposed to play the Shylock and demand the pound of flesh. She would doubtless feel very much chagrined if European nations should become tired of her bloody course and demand that she allow them to settle the matter.

Just in so far as a public reposi

Cor Noble & 10th sts.

It was a day of "freeze ups" Thursday the 7th; was. Among the corpses that lay stiff and stark at set of sun, were those of Cleveland's Financial Bill, and Reed's substitute.

GOVERNOR OATES is to be congratulated for selecting one so thoroughly qualified and suited to fill the vacancy as trustee of the State University as is Hon. John D. Caldwell of Jacksonville.

ALL the Alabama representatives voted against Mr. Cleveland's currency bill except Messrs. Clark, Harrison and Turpin. All the Georgia delegation voted against it except Turner.

GOVERNOR OATES has learned that the appointment of Railroad Commissioners is not a very desirable job. Where a man makes one friend by such an appointment he ordinarily makes twenty enemies.

FIVE million, five hundred and twenty-five thousand hogs were killed at the packing houses in this country, between the 1st of Nov. 1894, and Jan'y. 31st, 1895. These hogs averaged 229 pounds in weight.

Tom REED's Eastern friends are not pleased with the manner in which he has dodged around recently when the question of issuing bonds was before the House. It is very probable that the work of the next congress will burst Reed's little boom for the Presidency.

It is said around Montgomery that railroad money flows freely even during these hard times when it is necessary to influence legislation in a given direction. It is very probable that much will be heard yet of the work of the railroad lobbyists in Montgomery during the past two weeks.

From 1863 to 1873, silver sold at a premium of 5 per cent over gold. In those days silver had an equal showing. Its hands were not tied. Recently it sold at a discount of 40 per cent under gold. If gold had received the same treatment at the hands of our government that silver has received, it is very much to be doubted if it could have exhibited as much strength in this unfair, unequal contest.

The "Advertiser" like a great many other of the President's pugs, now and then gets out its old scare crow about silver driving gold out of circulation. Wonder if it "aint" out now? The truth is that gold is so scarce among the common people of the country, that a well assorted collection of our gold currency would prove a drawing exhibit at the Cotton States and International Exposition at Atlanta.

The alien railroad bill which passed the Alabama Legislature last week permits a foreign corporation holding stock in an Alabama corporation, to vote such stock in the meetings of the Alabama companies. In the fight against this bill it was claimed that it would put the Southern in control of the Alabama Great Southern and consequently the whole Queen and Crescent system, as the Southern controls the stock of the Alabama Great Southern held by the Central Trust company, of New York.

This bill was first defeated in the house, and the remarkable changes wrought within a week to pass the bill produced considerable comment; as the railroads were represented at the capital by paid lobbyists who it is said were not averse to using a little money in order to carry their point.

THE REPUBLICAN is glad to see the interest that our people are beginning to take in the subject of diversified farming. With the low price of cotton, has come a realization, that cotton alone will not sustain the South, any more than will wheat (the North west), or corn Kansas and Nebraska. Quite a number of farmers in Calhoun are disposed to make some experiments with tobacco. Those who have tried this plant in Clay county say that as fine a leaf can be grown there, as on the hills of North Carolina. If this be true, there is many a hill side in Calhoun, that can be profitably planted to this crop, we would advise all farmers to procure one or two small packets of seed and see what can be done. The experiment will cost nothing, and it may lead to the development of a new industry.

THERE has probably never been such a disposition on the part of the people to cut loose from party ties and vote for what they believe to be best for their home and country as at present.

It seems impossible for the Democratic congress to agree on a financial bill, and it will probably do well to let the question have a rest and pass the bill for the completion of the Nicaragua canal.

How soothing, how cheering, how delightfully refreshing it would be, to hear the Advertiser utter but a single note that we knew was not squeezed out of her by the thumb and forefinger of the administration.

A COMMITTEE of twelve has been appointed to investigate the recent state election in Tennessee. The committee consists of seven Democrats and five Republicans. This committee will go into all the counties where the vote has been challenged by either Turney or Evans.

FLORIDA has suffered fearfully from the recent freeze. The best informed orange growers estimate that 95 per cent of the crop is killed out right and that next year's crop will not reach 100,000 boxes against five million boxes this year. The early vegetable crop, the entire strawberry crop and four-fifths of the pineapple plantation destroyed. The aggregate loss is estimated at $10,000,000.

The people from all portions of the county agree that Oxford Lake is the place to hold the county fair, and all want to know why Sam Slim and the directors of the Oxford Lake Co., don't start the ball in motion by tendering the use of their property and calling a public meeting of the citizens of the county to consider it. Since Sam Slim has convinced all the people that Oxford Lake is the place to hold the fair, we are not disposed to allow him to crawl into a warm room and sit by the fire and do nothing further. We want him to convince the people that Oxford can take the lead and make a success of a county fair.

WHILE the Democrats in congress are fairly divided on the financial issue and have failed to get together on any bill holding out hope of financial relief, there is no reason to hope when the Republicans assume control that they will be able to agree; for in the recent vote on the administration bond bill the Republicans were as badly divided as the Democrats. The analysis of the vote cast on that bill shows that of the 131 votes cast for its passage, 11 were Republicans and 120 Democrats, while of the 131 votes cast in opposition to the bill, 53 were Republicans, 97 Democrats and 8 Populists.

HERE is the danger which seems to confront the Alabama politician who is opposed to the promotion of any Democrat who believes in the free exchange of silver. If Governor Oates does not offer for a second term, then there is no man in Alabama who can defeat Capt. Mrs. Johnston for Governor. If the Governor should offer for a second term then it is very probable that Capt. Johnston can defeat either the Governor or Dick Clark for the United States Senate. The people of Alabama made up their minds last year to give Capt. Johnston next year whatever he asks for, and it will be seen that the people will carry out this determination.

THE bill which passed the Senate last week, and which will doubtless become a law, providing that where a suit has been brought in the wrong court it may be changed to the proper one, without being dismissed from the court in which it was originally brought, seems to us to be a wise measure.

The nice distinction which has always existed between the chancery court and the court of law, a distinction which has involved many a client in useless expense, and given a great deal of trouble to many an attorney, will thus be wiped out, and a prolific source of "law's delays" will no longer exist. If we are rightly advised Chief Justice Stone was an advocate of such a rule of procedure, and Ex-Gov. Wards, was also of the opinion that the distinction was a useless one.

We are now showing full line of Spring Goods, in prints, domestic and foreign Ginghams, Percales, Crepons, Outings & many new weaves in cotton goods.

Is Cotton King?

It is claimed, and not without some semblance of reason, that this staple product of the south has lost its commercial importance by over production and consequent low prices; that it is no longer the sure source of wealth that it was in former times, but has become a fruitful agency for the impoverishing of our farmers. We are willing to admit that our people have been improvident, in that they have devoted their time, energy, talents and means to the production of cotton—to the exclusion of their domestic supplies—and that, had they reversed the order of their system of agriculture, by addressing themselves to the production of cereals, vegetables and fruits, and to the breeding of hogs, horses, sheep and cattle, making cotton a surplus crop, every southern home would now—even in these hard times—be the abode of contentment, happiness and prosperity.

Even with all her agricultural errors and improvidence, however, it is a fact which challenges contradiction, that the south is today the most prosperous section of these United States.

Millions upon millions of dollars in pensions—to which the south has contributed about one third part, without any compensatory return—has been dispensed in the eastern, western and northern states, and yet want, destitution, and extreme poverty, to which the south is a stranger, abound throughout their length and breadth. These states are adapted to the production of most of the comforts of life, and the inquiry may be pertinently made, "why are the southern states enjoying an independence and prosperity in excess of other sections of our country, whose natural resources have, for thirty years, been supplemented quarterly by large dispensations from the national treasury. The answer is found in our wonderful recuperative powers, and varied and inexhaustible resources."

While we have a soil and climate the most fertile and salubrious in the world, adapted to the production of all necessities, with small cost and little labor, we have in addition that so called dethroned monarch, King Cotton, to supply us with ready money to meet the demands and necessities of local commerce. He may not be king, but he has a power almost imperial in setting apart our south land as a section, superior in all the resources of wealth and comfort to any country in the civilized world. Though shorn of his locks he is Samson still; more powerful possibly, in his humiliation than in his former undisputed exaltation—for aggregated eastern capital, employed in the manufacture of cotton, has been driven by five cent cotton, to seek refuge in the cotton fields of the south, in order to meet the competition of cheap production and large profits.

From a survey of the situation, from this standpoint, four and five cent cotton may prove to be a blessing in disguise to the south, in inaugurating through this agency an era of prosperity unexampled and without a limit. But in the midst of these hope-inspiring possibilities let our farmers gather wisdom and learn providence from the object lesson before them. Whether it be through accident, design, or the munificence of nature, they have been blessed with an abundant supply of home comforts. With the low price of cotton, without an abundance of corn, wheat, molasses and meat, their condition would have been deplorable, and instead of sending supplies to their brethren of the drouth stricken districts of the bleak north west, they would have been like the unfortunate people of that section—objects of public charity.

Let us not commit the inexorable and suicidal folly of plauting cotton, to the neglect of the production of liberal food supplies, for the cotton bears of the commercial centers—offering to sell cotton in the Fall and Winter of 1895 at three and one half cents per pound, and the demoralized and stampeded bulls decline to accept the offer.

Farmers be not deceived. We hazard the prediction that he who raises four cent cotton this year, and does not fill his corn crib, barn, meat house and garner, will contemplate the fruit of his folly as a mad bankrupt狂人, and deplore neglected and improved opportunities. Be wise and raise all the supplies you need, at home, with a liberal surplus for sale, for nature is a capricious master, and in dispensing her bounties in 1895, may again withhold her favors from the greater north west, upon which the south, in her improvidence, has since the recent war, between the states been relying for her supply of meat, corn, flour and so forth.

With a wise diversity of crops, always making cereals, fruits and vegetables most prominent, cotton will still reign an undisputed monarch, with millions of spindles giving occupation to the idle, and clothing, in comfort, the world.

Taurus et Musca.

The Montgomery Advertiser, which desires the reputation of "a common scold" in the newspaper world, never misses an opportunity to hurl some little missiles the head of Alabama's distinguished son, Senator Morgan. The Advertiser little knows, how weary people are of this "thrice told tale" of hers, or she would cease. The Senator does not care, and in her exasperation, she will some day ask some one, why the senator is so aggravating as not to strike back. Some friend of hers will then relate to this amiable old lady, the little story told by the old Latin years ago—the story of the Bull and the Fly.

This fly had lit upon the horn of the bull, and overestimating its size—for all little things, imagine themselves big—it said to the bull, "I'll cause you any inconvenience I will move." Do not trouble yourself," said the bull, "I did not even know you were there. Thus will the Advertiser learn that Senator Morgan does not strike back because she is so small and weak.

Some time after the beginning of hostilities between China and Japan, a young American who had been a cadet at Annapolis, thinking that if he had charge of some of the Chinese vessels he could teach the "Japs" a thing or two in the way of sea-fighting, offered his services to China and they were accepted. Young McLure was the name of this ambitious American, and he was appointed commander of the magnificent "Che Yuen" the finest warship in the Chinese navy. A few nights since, the Japanese ran into the harbor of Wei Hai Wei with their torpedo boats, and before they came off they had sunk "Che Yuen" and several other Chinese vessels. When last heard of, McLure was aboard a torpedo boat running as fast as steam would carry him, with two or three big "Japs" men-o-war in pursuit. Pretty rough on young America, but every thing is fair in war.

Alabama Wants Settlers.

The leading business men of Jacksonville, Ala., have organized the Alabama Immigration Co., with Gen. J. W. Burke, receiver of the Chattanooga Southern Railroad, as president; M. H. Lane, general manager; J. F. Crook, secretary, and Mr. George P. Ide, cashier of the Tredegar National Bank of Jacksonville, treasurer. It is the intention of this organization to secure large areas of land in the country around Jacksonville for the purpose of settling it with Northern and Western farmers. There is probably no more inviting field in the South for farmers from other sections than Calhoun county, Ala., of which Jacksonville is the county-seat. It is a country watered by many beautiful streams formed by mountain springs; it has a climate that could scarcely be improved upon in winter or summer, and it has a productive soil yielding freely of grains, grasses, fruits and cotton. If this company will vigorously work to attract settlers it can do great good not only for its immediate section, but for the whole State—Manufacturers' Record, Feb. 8, 1895.

W. C. LOVERING appeared last week before the Committee on mercantile affairs in Boston, which is investigating the removal of textile manufactures to other states. Mr. Lovering said among other things that he did not believe southerners could tend looms successfully. A few moments afterwards, Mr. Nichols of the Dwight Co., of Chicopee—the people who are building the mill at Gadsden—said to the gentlemen of this committee, that while cheaper coal, cotton and labor were the chief attractions which were drawing mills to the South, it was a fact also that the class of labor found there "was far more intelligent" than that class employed in northern mills.

Mr. Nichols is right. There is no laboring class of people on earth of greater intelligence than the white people of the south. No class of foreign labor can compete with them. A statement, such as was made by Mr. Lovering, is either prompted by ignorance or a desire to assist New England in this rival-ship. Farmers be not deceived. We hazard the prediction that he who raises four cent cotton this year, and does not fill his corn crib, barn, meat house and garner, will contemplate the fruit of his folly as a mad bankrupt狂人, and deplore neglected and improved opportunities. Be wise and raise

all the supplies you need, at home, with a liberal surplus for sale, for nature is a capricious master, and in dispensing her bounties in 1895, may again withhold her favors from the greater north west, upon which the south, in her improvidence, has since the recent war, between the states been relying for her supply of meat, corn, flour and so forth.

"The New York Herald is receiving the commendation of the newspaper fraternity all over the country for its recent determination to encourage literary work throughout the country. The first prize of $10,000 will be given for the best serial novel of from 50,000 to 75,000 words, by an American writer. A prize of $8,000 is offered for the best novelle of between 15,000 and 25,000 words, another prize of $2,000 for the best short story of from 6,000 to 10,000 words, and one thousand dollars for the best American historic epic poem. The manuscripts will be examined by a committee of three appointed by the Herald, who will select three of the best of each kind. These will all be published successively in the paper, and the readers will decide by ballot to which production of each class the prizes shall be awarded. The Herald is nothing, if not original and unique in all its enterprises, and this last is one of the most deserving and commendable of all its efforts."—Chattanooga Times.

The Herald is one of the greatest newspapers in the world. Its owner has always been a leader in any progressive movement. This new scheme deserves the commendation of the whole country.

We trust that the South will lend her literary talent to this contest, and that more than one of these prizes will reward Southern efforts.

P. J. Moran, the special correspondent to the Constitution writes an interesting letter to that paper from the island of Cuba. He strongly advocates the annexation of Cuba by the United States. He thinks that the Cubans favor it, and says that it would be an act of national justice. Spain draws each year from this little island a tax sufficient to bankrupt her, were it not for her vast resources and wonderful recuperative powers.

Nearly all of Cuba's export trade is done with us, and Mr. Moran argues that every internal tax placed on Cuban products is a tax on the breakfast table of the United States.

HENRY WATTERSON deserted the silver flag last week, and is now numbered with its foes. After a valiant effort of years, in arraying the hosts of silver, he has, when the lines were drawn, and the conflict was imminent, turned lily-livered. The party has no enmity towards Mr. Watterson. It recognizes the fact that in every cause, however righteous, there is one or more Benedict Arnolds. Watterson will drop out, the ranks will close up, and the cause of silver—like to the cause of American freedom, will march on to victory.

Ten days loss of time account of sickness and a doctor bill to pay, is anything but pleasant for a man of a family to contemplate, whether he is a laborer, mechanic, merchant or publisher. Jas. O. Jones, publisher of the Leader, Mexia, Texas, was sick in bed for ten days with the grip during its prevalence: a year or two ago. Later in the season he had a second attack. He says: "In the latter case I used Chamberlain's Cough Kennedy with considerable success. I think, only being in bed a little over two days, the second attack I am satisfied would have been equally as bad as the first but for the use of this remedy. It should be borne in mind that the grip is much the same as a very severe cold and requires precisely the same treatment. When you wish to cure a cold quickly and effectively give this remedy a trial. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by dealers.

Dr. W. R. Amick the eminent consumption specialist, of Cincinnati, says that the contagion theory is all bosh. The city authorities, a few days ago were preparing to set 100 consumptives to the pest house, when the Doctor had his attorneys to enter protest. He ridicules the theory now generally accepted, and intimates that it originated in the brains of "wise men" who knew little of science, and who possessed small quantities of that desirable article, known as common sense.

Acrobat David Bennett Hill develops new powers each day. He performed the remarkable feat on Monday of turning a double somersault forwards, and then reversing in mid air turned a "double back." All without touching his hands.

O. W. O. Hardman, Sheriff of Tyler Co., W. Va., appreciates a good things and does not hesitate to say so. He was almost prostrated with a cold when he procured a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Kennedy. He says: "It gave me prompt relief. I find it to be an invaluable remedy for cough and colds." For sale by dealers.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Caxoria. When she was a child, she cried for Caxoria. When she became ill, she clung to Caxoria. When she had children, she gave them Caxoria.

New Lung Treatment

The new lung remedy, discovered by Dr. Copeland and now administered at the Copeland Medical Institute in deep-seated lung troubles, seems to be the panacea for the problem of the great treatment of lung consumption.
It is not only saving life in Atlanta; it has not only restored hundreds of pale sufferers from lung trouble among our own people, but its remedial potency and the certi-tude of the physician, upon which it is based, have been fully attested in practice elsewhere, and by leading lung specialists in every great city in the country, carried in commendatory expressions from whom will shortly be presented to the medical world. The advantages of the improved treatment are a regular and permanent feature of the Copeland system.

Let it be clearly and distinctly understood that Drs. Copeland and Howard, in their treatment and cure of lung trouble, cure it, not only to make them treat and cure asthma,
but they treat and cure asthma,
and they treat and cure rheumatism.

And they treat and cure bronchitis.

And they treat and cure lung trouble.

And they treat and cure catarrhal disease.

And they treat and cure sore eyes.

And they treat and cure skin diseases.

And they treat and cure nervous diseases.

And they treat and cure epilepsy.

And they treat and cure all chronic diseases.

And all medicines are furnished patients.

And for any and all of these.

The price is only $5 a month.

It is good for all patient's and diseases.

Take advantage of it now.

By the Copeland Perfected System of Mail Treatment you may be cured at home. Write for information.

For fifteen days Stoval has refused to eat, and has been acting as though his mind had weakened under the severe strain upon it. Lack of food made him very weak, and it was necessary to have the County physician with him. Mr. Clark detected him eating the food which had been placed in the cell, and from that time had a watch placed over him. Stoval meant to end his life, however, and would eat any thing that he could get hold of that he thought would hasten death. He even went so far as to eat the soap which was placed beside the water basin. He gradually grew weaker, and weaker, and on Friday night death came.

We make no comment on Stoval's death or crime. We only point the young men and boys of our county to it, as an illustration of the ends to which fierce hate and Friday night death can.

COME TO SEE US

THE FAMOUS,
Clothiers and Hatters

Cor Noble & 10th sts,

Anniston, Ala.

Li Hung Chang, the greatest Chinaman of them all, who was deprived of his honors some time since, has been called to the helm once more, by the Emperor. Chang is a great diplomat, a great man, and will doubtless arrange a treaty of peace. Merit will assert itself.

It is not a difficult matter to understand why the Montgomery Advertiser continues to follow Grover Cleveland in his "vicious" career—the pig always follows the sow for suck; but it is difficult, extremely difficult to see how Democrats, who hold that party pledges are worth a whit, can blindly follow an administration whose every act is a repudiation of those pledges.

THE REPUBLICAN regrets that it is obliged to confess a very great oversight in the matter of stating the news last week. It is always its desire to tell everything possible that would interest its readers, and therefore it begs pardon, for the negligences displayed in its last issue in not mentioning the fact that snow had fallen, in and around, Jacksonville.

The past two weeks have recorded stories of suffering and death at sea, that find no parallels in recent years. The damage done to life and property can not now be estimated. Upon one vessel alone three hundred souls went down to death, and there are hundreds of mothers, sisters and wives, that are waiting for tidings of loved ones, who left them in ships that will never return. The sea god in his wrath has left many a tale of sadness to be told, and for years and years, along the coast and on the waters, old citizens will relate the terrible sufferings of the winter of 1895.

ALABAMA has been badly treated by her Legislature. Other states will have their exhibits at the Cotton States and International Exposition this year, but Alabama must remain without representation save that which her citizens arrange. It will be rather humiliating for us to reply to the question propounded by visitors, as to the cause of the state having no exhibit, that our legislature would not allow an appropriation. We will be ashamed to confess that, with all the material which nature has furnished us, out of which we could easily have an exhibit that would have been attractive to capital, and an honor to our state, we were so parsimonious, or short-sighted, or whatever else it may be termed, as to refuse the appropriation of a few dollars, to aid so laudable an enterprise. It is a pity, but it's true.

No one can tell what complications may yet arise over Hawaiian affairs. America and England and the nations of the continent of Europe are jealous of one another's influence there, and now there appears upon the stage a new actor—little Japan. Her victory over China establishes her as one of the fighting nations of the world. Many Japanese live in the Hawaiian islands, and Japan, in her efforts to look after their welfare, will doubtless make it her business to have as great a "say so" in Hawaiian affairs as any other foreigner. It would not be a matter of surprise,—since she now has no naval warfare to wage—to see one of those magnificent cruisers which she recently captured from the Chinese, sail into the harbor of Honolulu and drop her anchor alongside the American and English warships.

THE REPUBLICAN wishes to thank its friends, both in Calhoun and other counties, as well as in other states, for the interest they manifested in its welfare. Every week it receives letters commanding it to do the work it is trying to do. Every week there come to its desk communications worthy of publication, with the writer's permission to publish it the REPUBLICAN desires.

The REPUBLICAN desires to publish them all, and regrets that it has not, so far, been able to enlarge its space, so as to do so. If some of its friends do not find their contributions in the paper, the REPUBLICAN begs that they will not think any lack of appreciation of their efforts is the cause. The REPUBLICAN anxiously looks for the day when it will be in touch with every man, woman and child in Calhoun County, and when it may be able so to increase its columns as to take advantage of the kind assistance tendered by its friends.

The captures of the entire Chinese fleet by the Japanese reminds one of the American victories on Lake Champlain and Lake Erie, during the war of 1812. Commodore Perry was the victor on Lake Erie. He was afterwards sent by the Government to arrange a trade treaty with China. Had China but followed up the step forward which she then made, it might have been, that the Japanese Admiral Ho, would not have "played Perry," with his fleet the other day.

If we hire a servant to attend to our business, and place implicit confidence in him; if we find that servant making secret trades involving the welfare of our business, and saying to those with whom he trades that they must not let us know it; if these trades bear on their face marks of deceit, and unfitness, and work great injustice to us; if these conditions exist, is it strange that we tell of his misdeeds? Would it not be stranger if we did not tell him? Is it not our duty to tell him?

Cleveland is a servant paid to attend to the business of the people of the Union. Cleveland has betrayed them. The people will tell him so.

MISS ANNA GOULD, daughter of the dead millionaire railroad robber, is to be married soon to the young Count Castelane of France. A number of American news papers referring to the event, seems to deplore the idea of a young Parisian coming over and taking away from the young men of America one of their wealthiest heiresses.

We rather take the opposite view of the whole matter. We are inclined to think that the fewer for Gould or grandsons of Jay Gould we have in the country, the better it will be. We bid Miss Gould and her titled lover a most joyful farewell. We trust that their every memory of America may be exonerated, forever, in the interdictions of Parisian society.

We clip the following interesting account of a new exhibit added to the Cotton States Exposition to be held in Atlanta, this Fall. E. W. McCollum has secured from the Cotton States and International Exposition Company a concession for a reproduction of the burning volcano of Kilaeua, the largest active volcano in the world. It is situated on the side of Mt. Mauna Loa, four thousand feet above sea level and ten miles from the Pacific.

According to Hawaiian mythology, the god of the sea fell in love with Pele, the goddess of fire, and pursued her to Mauna Loa. There she took refuge in the burning volcano of Kilaeua. When it is in eruption Pele is supposed to be angry, and the Kahuna or priest offers prayer, with sacrifices of animals or children. The goddess Pele will be represented as rising from the flames when called forth by the incantation of Kahuna.

She will be personated by a beautiful Hawaiian girl. The Court Singers of King Kalakaua will sing the religious song of the Hawaiians.

THE REPUBLICAN regretted the resolutions passed by the farmers of Alexandria valley, cause so late last week. The farmers were filled and we did not have time to get the resolutions into print. The resolutions were to the effect that the farmers had been imposed on by fertilizer manufacturers and dealers, and they decided to fix the price, which they were willing to pay for guano and phosphates, in cotton. In other words they agreed to pay 30cts of cotton for a ton of guano and 250 lbs. of cotton for a ton of acid Phosphate. A call was issued to the farmers of the country to meet in Jacksonville on the 23rd, inst., in order that the whole country might organize in united effort.

The REPUBLICAN welcomes the farmers to Jacksonville. The movement is a good one. Whether this arrangement is effected or not, the meeting will result in our people talking over this matter of commercial fertilization, and the mere exchange of views will be worth a great deal. It would only have organized the Agricultural Society three or four months since, of which the REPUBLICAN was so named, in advocate, this matter would already have been fully discussed.

Let the farmers get together. The subject of concentrated fertilizers is a great study, and great good will result from its discussion.

The Court House Issue.

Last spring before the holding of the county convention, Anniston, through her press and expressions from her leading citizens, extended the olive branch, to the upper portion of the county by declaring that on account of the division among the people upon other questions, there should be no local contest in Calhoun during the State canvass, and that no sectional legislation should be enacted by the legislature just closed, looking toward a removal of the court house.

The Anniston delegation to the Democratic county convention came to the convention with the same declarations, and insisted, as there were to be no local issues, that the rest of the county should concede to Anniston one of the representatives.

To this proposition the rest of the county acceded, and went so far as to say to the Anniston delegation that they could select their own man and he would receive the solid vote of the convention.

The Anniston delegation held a caucus and presented to the convention the name of R. B. Kelly, who was nominated unanimously, as was W. C. Scarbrough of White Plains.

These two gentlemen went before the people and gave assurances that no bill would be introduced by them looking toward a removal of the court house, and Mr. Kelly, in his speech at Jacksonville stated that he would go to Montgomery as the representative of Calhoun county, and not as the representative of any particular section of the county, and that he would advocate no local legislation which looked to the building up of one town or section at the expense of others.

And while on the stump Mr. Kelly's answers to questions in reference to the court house question were of such a nature that Mr. Graut, who was then the editor of the REPUBLICAN, wrote an article stating that Jacksonville's interests were safe in Mr. Kelly's hands, and urged that Jacksonville give him an enthusiastic support.

The result of the state election shows how the people here trusted Mr. Kelly's honesty and sincerity. He received the full party vote.

And Mr. Kelly's recent action in having passed by the General Assembly a bill forcing a vote on the removal of the court house, shows how he abused this trust and confidence.

Mr. Scarbrough, be it said to his honor, lived up to the pledges he made the people while on the stump, and comes home with the confidence and respect of every man in Calhoun county.

While we regret exceedingly the necessity for this contest, for it will inevitably be the bitterest fight ever held in the county, yet we have no fear as to the result.

Right is all on the side of Jacksonville, and she will certainly win this fight.

There are many reasons why the court house should not be moved to Anniston, and none why it should.

Probably before the establishment of the Anniston City Court, there might have been some semi-reason of reason in a proposition to remove the court to Anniston; but since the county now furnishes the Anniston City court jurisdiction with a court which costs the county annually eight thousand dollars,—a sum twice as large as the circuit court costs the entire county,—and which can easily transact all the legal business in its jurisdiction,—the proposition for the county to properly place before the people, as it will be, there is no question but a very large majority of the people of the county will answer at the ballot box that they believe the county is discharging its full duty to Anniston in furnishing her a court at an annual cost of eight thousand dollars, and that they are not willing to be taxed to satisfy her further greed.

From the election bill which we publish this week it will be seen that Anniston has, had passed a bill which calls for an election with requiring a registration, and which makes no provision for a contest. These two features will receive the attention they deserve later in the campaign, and we only desire now to call the attention of the people to them while the bill is before them.

Principles, not men, we follow.

The conspiracy to demonetize silver as primary money, in disregard of the rights of the people, and the well-established principles and hasty resolutions of the Democratic party, has practical methods, in order to cover the opposition and enlist the support of the unwary and unsuspecting, in its unholy crusade. With gradual and clandestine approaches, to the ultimate object of attainment, it insidiously suggests, then earnestly remonstrates, and finally boldly demands the relegation of silver as the sine qua non of sound money, substantial prosperity, and national growth and dignity. Every step that has been taken has been urged by the flattering promises that the era of financial relief and popular contentment would surely follow, as the night follows the day, that all the conditions would be met for a grand forward movement in American progress, and that "the wilderness and the solitary places would be glad, and the desert rejoice and blossom as the rose."

We commend the veto of Governor Bates, of the Alien Rail Road Bill, as able, conclusive, exhaustive, and unanswerable, to the members of the House of Representatives—among whom is our faithful Scarbrough—who came to his support in such overwhelming numbers, we heartily say, "well done, thou good and faithful servant."

The President's recent raid upon United States securities has caused forth a denunciatory cry from many of his hitherto ardent supporters. The New York World, which has upheld him in his financial views makes an earnest appeal for a turning on of the light. Referring to the secrecy of the whole matter, it says that, "the people of our government have a right to know the full details of any transaction by which their savings are to be mortgaged to pay high rates of interest to the bulls of the gold market."

Not content with this statement of the world continues:

"The popular protest against secret in the bond sale has led its supporters to turn a deaf ear to the appeals of the people and the pledges of his party, and lead the procession to the burial place of this glittering corpse, once by decree of the fathers of the republic, a monarch in the realm of commerce. But shocking as this may be to the rank and file—the honest constituency of the Democratic party—it is to say the truth.

Mr. Cleveland, impatient for the assertion of his preconceived financial views, in opposition to the principles of the platform on which he was nominated, and which he was pleased to carry out, called a special session of Congress in 1863, in extraordinary session and by message, urged the repeal of the purchasing clause of the Sherman law, without suggesting remedial legislation, looking to the fears and unlimited dangers of silver as a refer to the country and the distresses of the people. This repeal of the purchasing clause was promised as a panacea to hard times, industrial prostration, and universal poverty. Congress who had been honored by the people, for their sound judgment and legislative ability, ignoring the maxim that "in a multitude of counsels there is safety," were persuaded that their own honest convictions were at fault, and the outrages of the people were the issue ravings of a foolish mob. Under the bewildering inspiration of extreme partisans, some of these trusted servants of the people deferred to the opinion of the president, carried out the behests of his message, left undone that which they were commissioned to do, and entailed upon the people a financial, commercial, and industrial crisis, with its attendant evils unprecedented in the history of the country.

It was not the repeal of the purchasing clause of the Sherman law, or the failure to enact legislation, providing for bimetallism that alone brought disaster to the country, but a failure or decision on the part of the secretary of the treasury under the advice of the president, to carry out the unprejudiced portion of the Sherman law—which is today on the statute book in full force—and which is obligatory upon the market price, 119, or at the issue rating of a foolish mob.

Under the bewildering inspiration of extreme partisans, some of these trusted servants of the people deferred to the opinion of the president, carried out the behests of his message, left undone that which they were commissioned to do, and entailed upon the people a financial, commercial, and industrial crisis, with its attendant evils unprecedented in the history of the country.

The REPUBLICAN is pleased to slip from a Baltimore paper, the following complimentary remarks of Messrs. Wm. H. and Richard H. Edwards:

"Right here in Baltimore how many people are ignorant of the work that is being done for this nation, of which Baltimore is to be the commercial centre, and seniorage; while they themselves look up in the vaults of the government. The unopposed part of the Sherman law, in section three, provides that the secretary of the treasury shall not, in much of this nation, as may be necessary to redeem these outstanding treasury notes, issue certificates in silver coin. But to gain this bullion and make it perform its function of redemption as contemplated by law, would have paid monometalism, and defeated the purpose of the president and secretary of the treasury, to carry out the scheme of the Rothschilds, Seligmanns, Göttheimers, Hechels, Benefits, and their co-conspirators in finance, for redeeming our government obligations in gold, which, by provision of law were redeemable at the option of the government in silver or gold."

We know that it is unpopular to criticize officials in high places, yet if the people and the press were denied this right, our government would soon be republican only in name. If Democrats, we can prove our faith only by our works in adhering to, and fearlessly carrying out its principles.

If an official declines to make these principles his rule of conduct, and measure of action, then to induce him to repudiate the party, this we will never do, and when we are called upon to decide between men and principles, we will always declare our loyalty to the latter.

We have no hope of the disengagement of the people except through the enforcement of democratic principles.

In conclusion, it may not be inappropriate to call upon our brethren, who have run off after strange gods and are now worshipping at their shrines, to come back to the party and battle as of yore for the supremacy of democracy.

We commend the veto of Governor Bates, of the Alien Rail Road Bill, as able, conclusive, exhaustive, and unanswerable, to the members of the House of Representatives—among whom is our faithful Scarbrough—who came to his support in such overwhelming numbers, we heartily say, "well done, thou good and faithful servant."

See 2. Be it further enacted, that if no election shall be ordered under the provisions of this act until there shall be secured free of charge to Calhoun county bond subscriptions in the aggregate sum of seven thousand, five hundred dollars, to be applied to the securing of a proper site and the erection of a new court house in the city of Anniston, then it shall be the duty of the court of county commissioners, as soon after the result of said election is ascertained, as is practicable, to select a suitable location within the city of Anniston on which to erect a suitable court house for the use of said county, and they are hereby authorized and empowered to purchase, receive by donation or subscription, as herefore provided, a fee simple title to and in any lots and lands, so as to vest the title in the county of Calhoun, and proceed to erect on the lot or lots selected, immediately, a suitable court house for the use of said county, and to provide a suitable place for the holding of the courts, with necessary offices for the use of all county officers. If said election shall be decided in favor of Anniston, it shall be the duty of the court of county commissioners to sell all lands and other property, except the county poor house, belonging to the county, located in the corporate limits of the town of Jacksonville, and use the proceeds in erecting said court house at Anniston, and to provide a suitable place for the holding of the courts, with necessary offices for the use of all county officers. New Lung Treatment.

The new lung remedy, discovered by Dr. Copeland and now administered at the Copeland Medical Institute, is the only one that can successfully solve the problem of the correct treatment of incipient consumption. It is not only saving life in Atlanta, it has not only restored hundreds of pale sufferers from lung trouble among our own people, but its remarkable popularity is a reflection of the philosophy upon which it is based have been abundantly attested in practice elsewhere, and by leading lung specialists in every great city in the country, earnest commendatory expression has been made to whom the physician has dedicated to the community. The advantages of the improved treatment are a regular and permanent feature of the Copeland system.

Let it be clearly and distinctly understood that Drs. Copeland and Howard treat and cure asthma.

But they treat and cure asthma.

And they treat and cure rheumatism.

And they treat and cure bronchitis.

And they treat and cure lung troubles.

And they treat and cure catarrhal diseases.

And they treat and cure sore eyes.

And they treat and cure skin diseases.

And they treat and cure nervous diseases.

And they treat and cure epilepsy.

Probably one of the most interesting incidents that occurred in our town during the recent snow, was the brigade of young ladies who were out Saturday evening on a "bachelor hunt." They were around with dozens of snow-balls, which the small boy contingent carried for them, and, whenever they sighted a victim they immediately began an artillery practice at his "dogmatic" head.

O. W. O. Hardman, Sheriff of Tyler Co., W. Va., appreciates a good thing and does not hesitate to say so. He was almost prostrated with a cold when he procured a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. He says: "It gave me prompt relief. I find it to be an invaluable remedy for cough and colds." For sale by dealers.

Just received a fine line of coffins and caskets and those in need of same please give me a call.

The Electropeise has cured me of neuralgia, indigestion and a complication of other ailments which had so completely wrecked my nervous system that my life was a burden. I had been sick for twenty years. I realize that the Electropeise is a propelling force in nature's storehouse for suffering humanity. It is nature's remedy, whose effect is so silent, so sure and yet so mysterious that it is justly termed the wonder of the age.

It Is Wonderful What the Electropeise Will Do.

We are of the opinion that John Jeffs ought to be elected commissioner of Streets and Public Improvements for Jacksonville.

Alison C. Jenkins, manager of circulation for the Chattanooga Times was in our city on Tuesday, looking after the interests of his valuable paper.

The barber who has been here since Mr. Clegg has been sick, left very suddenly on Thursday night.

He carried with him about twenty dollars worth of goods that belonged to other people.

The seal, drill purchased by Messrs. Crow and Edwards, of which the REUNION spoke some time ago, arrived on Tuesday. No sooner did it reach the public square than it dived into the raptious maw of Scott Dean's office.

Mrs. Emily Thorne, who resides at Toledo, Washington, says she has never been able to procure any medicine for rheumatism that relieves the pain so quickly and effectually as Chamberlain's Pain Balsam and that she has also used it for other people.

As a curative agent the Electropeise can not be excelled.

ABERDEEN, O.

Messrs. LIPPMAN BROS., Savannah, Ga.

DEAR SIRS—I bought a bottle of your P. P. P. at Hot Springs, Ark., and it has done me more good than three months' treatment at the Hot Springs.

Have you no agents in this part of the country, or let me know how much it will cost to get three or four bottles from your city by express.

Respectfully yours,

JAS. M. NEWTON,

Aberdeen, Brown County, O.

NEWNANVILLE, F. I.

Messrs. LIPPMAN BROS., Savannah, Ga.

DEAR SIRS—I wish to give any testimonials in regard to your valuable medicine, P. P. P., for the cure of rheumatism, neuralgia, dyspepsia, biliousness, etc. In 1891 I was attacked with bilious neuralgia, rheumatism, and have been suffering to it ever since. I tried all medicine I ever heard of, and all the doctors in reach, but I found only temporary relief; the pains were so bad at times that I did not care whether I lived or died. My rheumatism is so bad that I did not care whether I lived or died. My wife also suffered so intensely with dyspepsia that her life was a burden to her; she would continue to her bed for weeks. The time she also suffered greatly from giddiness and loss of sleep. Some time in March I was advised to take P. P. P., add before we say so. He was almost prostrated with a cold when he procured a bottle of P. P. P., our digestion began to improve. My pains subsided so much that I have been able to work, and am feeling stronger than I have been for a long time. I have not done, however, what I have not done before, and I am not able to work, and am feeling stronger than I have been for a long time. The time I was advised to take P. P. P., add before we say so. He was almost prostrated with a cold when he procured a bottle of P. P. P., our digestion began to improve. My pains subsided so much that I have been able to work, and am feeling stronger than I have been for a long time. The time I was advised to take P. P. P., add before we say so. He was almost prostrated with a cold when he procured a bottle of P. P. P., our digestion began to improve. My pains subsided so much that I have been able to work, and am feeling stronger than I have been for a long time. The time I was advised to take P. P. P., add before we say so.
